Offering for Farmer to Farmer

Farmer to Farmer began in 2002 with a commitment to help resource-poor people in the remote mountain regions of Nicaragua gain access to land, giving them a chance to work their way out of poverty and make a better life for themselves and their families. Land is purchased and five-acre parcels are sold to eligible participants via interest-free loans. The program has grown from two land banks and twenty-eight farm families to eight land banks and 105 families. As a result, today the participants are well fed, the children attend school, and their parents have a means to pay for school supplies and other necessities. Farmer to Farmer also works with two in-country organizations to provide agronomic training and financial advice.
